

Cell phones on the plane? NO, NO, NO, for God's sake, no. People are distracted enough on the plane, imagine passengers yakking away and ignoring the flight attendants' instructions and questions even more than they already do. I can just see the oxygen masks coming down and no one paying attention. Let alone the aggravation to passengers who are trying to sleep on a long international flight. We have enough incidences of plane rage, thank you very much.
